What Texas Oil World Has to Say About the U. S. Oil Scandal

By J. F. MORRISSEY
Editor Texas Oil World

The Teapot Dome revelations, startlingly vivid and too clear for any intelligent reader to doubt their significance, continue to take up the time of the Senate when it should be at work on matters of purely constructive scope.

Writers Prefer Private Investigation

There are those who now deplore the press agency of the government and express fear that in attending to the cleaning up of this affair "before the public" it will "act to further prejudice the public mind against the oil industry as a whole."

"Toothsome Morsel"

These writers add that "any scandal that can be uncovered in connection with oil is a toothsome morsel for the members of our national legislative bodies" and animadvert on the comparative passiveness of the government in ignoring a recent scandal in connection with another matter, or the stock speculations of General Leonard Wood's son.

Got What Others Could Have Got

Continuing, the same authorities protest against the appearance of an organized raid upon the public domain, which they assert is being given to the Teapot Dome affair and add that the parties to this lease grant got no more than any others would have been in a position to receive, the only suspicion of scandal being "in the side transactions which have been so insinuatingly mentioned in connection with Mr. Fall's personal financial affairs."

"Oil Industry" Propaganda Wanted

Now, they insist, is a time when the oil industry needs a champion who would disseminate through the daily press that the sins of the Wyoming or California naval reserve leases should not be laid at the door of the oil industry.

In this exposition of affairs there is much wanting. Let us take up point after point.

Complete Change of Face

That the government or some of its politicians are using press agency is clear. But it is a mistake publicly to "clean up" these big frauds, they tell us, when the government and the very writers who now deplore publicity in connection with the $200,000,000 graft by big companies were supremely content to have the Associated Press and everybody else vociferate denunciations against a few petty grafters and some men of visionary expectations, who took in a few hundred thousand dollars and spent much of it in cases, most of it, in drilling wells.

Another Ox Gored Now

At that time, because it is desired that the American public should create a monopoly for the Standard Oil and its subsidiaries, the press agency of the government could not be used stentoriously enough to please the writers who are now so loath to read about Teapot Dome, and are frightened that the public should be made aware of some of the events which are happening in the "oil industry" and become further prejudiced against it.

Will come to Let Daugherty Talk

It happens now that the very agency, which was so docile a tool in the hands of the Standard Oil in crushing out independent oil drilling by others than the companies this monopoly controls, is under fire and, should, most people believe, get out of office if the Coolidge government would clear itself. "Let the Attorney-General start whatever he wants," seems to be the principle of the Standard Oil publications. "He's all right. We know where he heads in; but don't let the Senate and, particularly men like La Follette and Walsh and Johnson talk in public about the sins of the 'oil industry.'" Daugherty will unearth some petty grafters and the precious public will, as usual, realize that the purification wrought by their punishment has removed the last trace of corruption from the oil industry. It is too bad that the $200,000,000 theft perpetrated against the entire American people should be talked about.

Time Enough For Other Things

"Why doesn't the government take up the case of young Wood, the General's son, who made several hundred thousand in stock speculation?" they ask. This is droll. Time enough to take up the filer of this youth when we have learned more about the big fish which are just now in the net. Of course it is a "toothsome morsel," just as the petty graft stories which added to the philippic glory of court and magazine harangues a few months ago were toothsome to the public, although they pale into insignificance when compared with the $200,000,000 larceny that is charged in connection with the naval reserve oil leases.

Only the Usual Grab

No, this naval oil reserve steal was not an organized raid against the public domain. It was the usual "big business" grab and was affected by the old methods and men. There was, in principle, absolutely nothing exceptional about it, although we confess it was a bit crude in execution, probably because there was so many "higher-ups" in on it that caution seemed superfluous.

Much is Overlooked

The defenders of the "oil industry," however, overlook much when they say that the parties got no more than any others would have been in a position to receive. Unless they mean "any others who should carefully have the navy oil reserve transferred from the navy to the Interior Department where they had a henchman in command, and have carefully prepared naval officers placed where they could do the most good in furtherance of the grab." In this case, of course, any of the other big companies would have been in a position to make the grab and doubtless would have hesitated not one moment in doing so.

Let us turn to the final statement of defenders of the "oil industry," that it now needs a champion who will disseminate in the daily press the propaganda that the sins of Teapot Dome are not the sins of the "oil industry," but merely individual delinquencies and departures from the high morality of the "oil industry" in the past and present.

Compound Oil Industry With S. O.

What is really meant by the "oil industry" throughout this article as the expression is used in the mouths of the speakers for big oil business?

Evidently there can be no two opinions regarding this. They mean the Standard Oil Companies and their subsidiaries and allies. They virtually admit the monopoly which is the aim of the Standard Oil group and for the furtherance of which the Standard and its minions were so desperately determined to crush out independent oil production by small men, whether promoters or independent companies, during 1923.

Present Scandal Useful

Unless the people of the United States are determined to hoodwink themselves they will see in the present scandal revealed in Washington the peril of Standard Oil control. They will recognize that what is revealed is nothing to what has occurred in the past. Mr. Doheny, we believe, is one of the highest principled men in the oil business. He is immeasurably superior in his ethics to most of the leaders of the "oil industry," and most people know it. If, then, Doheny has acted as he appears to have acted, the rest of the big companies are capable of going to lengths immeasurably beyond anything so far revealed. It is, therefore, time not for whitewashing the Standard, but for putting it in order.

GOOD-BY PORTER'S JOB, GOOD-BY FARM, HELLO YOU OIL! SAYS UNCLE JOHN

By R. D. Stevenson

When the lightning of good (oil) luck struck in Caldwell County, Texas, it hit square in the back yard of old Uncle John Merriweather, a negro, born in slavery back in old Tennessee, and for fifty years a resident on the little farm from which he is now getting royalties and leisure instead of cotton and a back-ache.

Uncle John is a land-mark of Caldwell county. At one time, back in the old carpetbag days, he was elected to the legislature—but never served. For thirty years, however, beginning with the first session during the administration of Charles A. Culbertson, as governor, regular and extra sessions alike, he served at the capitol as a porter while his boys ran the farm.

Between sessions, he stayed on the 100 acre farm and looked after it himself. This work, along with his duties as dean of the Baptist church kept him pretty busy.

This year, however, Uncle John cut out both the legislature and farming. Oil was discovered on his farm on Christmas Day, 1922, and within a few weeks the farm was all mused up with derricks, slush pits and reservoirs. Farming was entirely out of the question.

And as for his job at Austin, who would want to be a porter in a legislature when he had a 100 acre farm half-developed, and with ten wells on it making better than 500 barrels each, or 5,000 barrels a day? Uncle John's income was somewhere around $300 a day.

Uncle John does not know exactly how old he is because the Bible in which his birth was recorded is in possession of the white Merriweathers in whom Uncle John believed before Lincoln issued his famous proclamation. But one of the white Merriweather boys has told Uncle John that he ought to be about 70 because they were both the same age.

We went to see Uncle John to ask him how it seemed to be the richest colored man in Caldwell county. We didn't find him sitting in a plush upholstered chair listening in on the radio, with his hired help around to wait on him and a Rolls Royce in the front yard rarin' to go. He was sitting in the front room of the little home. This room, by the way, is also living room, kitchen, and one of the bedrooms. Uncle John was just reading the Bible.

He is very conservative. As you can see upon examining his picture he believes in "Safety First"—he wears both a belt and suspenders. Uncle John has not even begun to inquire into the different makes of automobiles, and if his children "go to the devil" in a high-powered car at the rate of sixty miles an hour, they will first have to chloroform Uncle John. Having lived 70 years according to the precepts of the Bible, he proposes to go on living in "the good old-fashioned way."

The first thing that Uncle John is going to do is "get a nice little place," maybe in Luling, maybe in San Antonio. Just a nice little place where he can have flowers in the front yard, and can putter around in a garden in the back yard. But this dreamed of place must be within easy walking distance of a Baptist Church.

One of the tragedies in the life of Uncle John was when he and Mrs. Merriweather disagreed and the court finally granted them a divorce, and divided the farm in the middle, giving them each half. That was before anyone thought of finding oil on the farm and the court neglected to say anything about mineral rights.

After oil was found, it became a complicated matter to divide up the royalties, for though the wells were on Uncle John's half, Mrs. Merriweather claimed an interest.

There seemed only one right way to settle it and that was for Uncle John and his ex-wife to get married over again. That's just what they did and everything is all right again—both of them will enjoy the "nice little place."

THIS ALBERTA LAW CALLED VICIOUS ONE

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—It is understood that the report of law officers of the crown in the matter of legislation passed by the legislature of Alberta imposing a tax on mineral rights in the lands of private companies, is favorable to federal disallowance.

The matter has not yet been decided by the cabinet and what action it may take is problematical inasmuch as political influence sometimes cuts a figure in such cases, and the prerogative of disallowance is always sparingly exercised. The legal view, however, is that the legislation is vicious, confiscatory in its effects and designed to work injury to the companies possessing lands containing minerals. If the law officers' view prevails it will be disallowance.

The principal appellants were the Hudson's Bay company, the C. P. R. and the Calgary Land company.

ARTHUR VALLIE GETS 2 YEAR PRISON TERM

Two years in the penitentiary for the theft of $275 of merchandise from a railway car on the Canadian National at Irma, was the sentence received by Arthur Joseph Vallie in the criminal court at Edmonton, Monday. Vallie had jumped his bail and was endeavoring to get into the United States under the name of James Edward Read, when detained at Blaine by immigration officers. He was brought back by Detective Skelton of the Alberta Provincial Police, to stand trial before Justice Tweedie.

Lived on farm
Vallie was a former Grand Trunk railway conductor and was born in Montreal 43 years ago. To the immigration officers he gave a city address, 10025 118th Street. In the court yesterday he gave his address at Muiza. It was on his farm, in his house, that the stolen goods were recovered.

A brother appeared in court before Justice Ives two weeks ago, and for the same raid on the railway car, pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and given 30 minutes in jail.

A son and a friend of the boy by the name of Warren, previously pleaded guilty to receiving some of the stolen property, and were let go on suspended sentence.

During the preliminary hearing, when the gang were committed for trial, the sworn evidence was to the effect that A. J. Vallie, whom the police considered the ringleader, was not present at the raid on the car. Since that, evidence that he was present was secured, and the conviction yesterday was the result of the work done by the Alberta Provincial Police in the case.

$50,000 FIRE AT WAINWRIGHT SATURDAY

The clangor of the fire alarm at the early hour of 1 a. m. on Saturday morning last hurriedly broke up the last games in the bonspiel at the rink, and inside of ten minutes the fire fighters were in attendance at the worst conflagration our town has suffered since the big fire in the Small block some years ago.

The fire which started in the Fieldhouse apartment over Mayor Gerow's drug store is thought to have started from defective wiring, as there has been no fires in the premises upstairs during the whole of Friday and when W. Sucking, who was first upstairs with a "chemical" nozzle attempted to enter he found that the lights were not working and the hallway a sheet of flame some distance from where the heater was situated.

The actual damage suffered is as follows:—Gerow's store partial stock, fixtures, etc.; Mr. Fieldhouse, complete home contents; Mr. Savors, partial stock and fixtures, and partial home contents; Mr. Cox, personal effects and, Mr. Washburn, damage to stock from smoke and water. Structural losses are:—Mr. R. Crammish, block practically gutted; Mr. J. Telford, building practically gutted; and Mr. Washburn, damage to inside roof and side walls of building.

VIKING

In a game that scintillated with speed and action such as has never been unrolled in this man's domicile before, since the famous Silver Seven of by-gone years performed on the concealed waters of the local arena, Killam, moved out a 6 to 4 victory in an overtime game here last Wednesday night, February 6th, A.D. 1924. Setting a dizzy pace in the first period which never slackened in intensity for seventy minutes by the town clock, the visitors smacked home two counters in the first period, while our hired men were cross-eyed.

In the second frame, our athletes, goaded by the sight of these two scores that stared at them like a pair of goblin's eyes out of the inky blackness of a racing sea, threw themselves into the fray with reckless abandon, and pouring an avalanche of shots that sizzled with lightning velocity upon the Alphonso Gaston-like visiting goal tender, beat him three times before the sound of cease firing was heard. Forrest and Sandy were the two dragons who performed this feat much to the delight of the four hundred odd fans and families who went mad with ecstasy and joy. The pandemonium and bedlam, then, broke loose, it still re-echoing in the high heavens, and all radio stations are reporting atmospheric conditions such as come only from unusual disturbances. Many of our fellow townsmen are still talking about these hectic twenty minutes, and local history will not be complete without a reference to them to our children's children, and they will get a kick out of it when they are bent and grey with advancing years.

With one-counter to the good when appearing for the third period, our men held the balance of power. But, friends, only for a short space of time. Layne, of Killam, the wielder of the birch and not when his flopping nicks, assayed a neat maneuver down to where Max Gray was keeping vigil, and working in close with checkers all around him, he did the impossible, and tied the score. The seventy fellowmen from his burg who were among the present, cheered this superhuman feat, and his chest swelled with pride while his adherents hearts filled with hope.

Enter Johnny O'Leary. This quiet and unobtrusive lad, seeing Layne perform a miracle, set his mind to do the same, and holding the puck away from one of the opposition, evaded his pursuers long enough to aim for the net, and presto, pronto, he did it. Man, Oh, man, wasn't everybody happy, all but the 75 from Killam. Killam rebuked their efforts to break the tie before the cowbell rang, but without avail, the Viking line held like the proverbial stone wall. The referee waved the teams into their respective discouts to freshen their fagged bodies and brains to do battle for another ten minutes overtime.

Let it be said right here and now that Killam's hopes of winning were decidedly small at this juncture, and the Killam backers drew in their similes which they had previously waved tauntingly as well as temtively in the faces of the home boasters.

To make a long story short Killam won the game in the last five minutes of play because they had the fresher men. Our boys held them scoreless for the first five minutes but in the last minutes, breathless and fagged, they could not stop the three-fresh men that Killam mustered out to bring home the bacon. A game that was the best ever seen on this line or any other line ended with Killam 4 scores, Viking 4.

Fresh from a victory over the fast Toffield team, Holden re-enforced with players from Ryley descended upon the town Monday evening with the firm intent to lift the famous Dawson trophy held by our hockey team. Holden and his encouragement of fans that accompanied their favorites went home sadder and wiser when the score of 6 to 3 loomed up against them.

Keller's movies opened up for the season in Jensen's hall last Tuesday evening and was accorded a full house. The picture shown was a ten reel special entitled "The Prisoner of Zenda" which excelled in gorgeous scenery and excellent acting. Next week's attraction is "Pioneer Trails" which is said to be as good as "The Covered Wagon" which is the rage in the cities just now. A short comedy before the main picture would brighten up the program.

The beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Louder was the scene of a social gathering last Friday evening, February 6th when they gave a dance to invited guests. It was one of the most enjoyable dances given this year. The lounge was filled to its capacity. A sumptuous luncheon was served at midnight. Messrs. Finch, Pilegrim, Evan Jones, Alex. Thompson and Mike Ryan furnished the music.

The fast train was stalled here Monday evening for over two hours on account of a drive and in the ensuing breasting just as they got to the express for just west of town. An engine from Newburg was sent to the rescue. Several of the passengers passed the time away watching the Hallden Viking hockey game and hearing a radio concert in the observation car.

The first luncheon of the Board of Trade will be held in the dining room of the Elbow hotel on Tuesday evening, February 10th at 6:30. Rev. G. A. Clarke will address the meeting on "The Aim of Citizenship." Mr. Clarke is one of the oldest speakers in the province. A drive will be made to get a good attendance at the luncheon, which will cost five per person. Other matters will also be taken up at this gathering.

Mrs. Rile of Viking and her mother Mrs. Crisp of Saskatoon are spending the winter at Alhambra, California.

C. G. Purvis left on Thursday last on a business trip to Vancouver.

Quite a party of well-knowns in the Viking drainage case obtained for Edmonton Wednesday morning to give evidence at the trial this week.

Mrs. Les Roberts and Mrs. Thimell were visitors in Edmonton last Wednesday, where they saw the famous musical comedy "The Maid of the Mountains."

Mortgage Companies Forced to Withdraw From This Province

Learning recently that the Associated Mortgage Investors Company, of Rochester, N. Y., one of the largest mortgage brokerage concerns doing business in Western Canada, intended to withdraw from the Alberta investment field owing to the effect of recent legislation on farm loans, the Journal wired D. A. Campbell, president of the company, asking if the report was true, and if so, the reasons for the decision.

Mr. Campbell's reply, received by wire today, follows:

"With the great abiding faith which we have in the province of Alberta, nothing would be more to my liking than bringing increased capital from the United States into your province, and it is therefore with regret that I have had to withdraw this company from active business in making new loans within the province on account of conditions over which we have no control and for which we possess no remedy. These result from certain unfortunate and unfavorable laws which undermine the whole principle of the first mortgage."

"The principle of the first mortgage is that the amount loaned is definite. There is nothing speculative or open to change in the first mortgage as it is intended. In its operation in Alberta the principle is not followed and the holder of the first mortgage has nothing definite as to the amount which he has in the property because of the various charges which can be made and which can become, in reality, a part of the mortgage. This represents a hazard in doing business which can only be covered by high interest rates and lending a very small amount on each farm. The farmers chief source of credit is his land and he should be able to borrow against it the largest amount possible at the lowest possible rate of interest. Anything, therefore, tending to make the rate go up is not to his advantage and strangely enough it is not to the advantage of the mortgage company. We prefer lower rates because they indicate more sound conditions."

"Taxes as at present collected are charged to the mortgage companies when badly in arrears, instead of an adequate effort being made to collect taxes out of the season's crop, and these, with the other charges which can come in ahead of the first mortgage, make so much uncertainty as to where the mortgage stands, that our company feels itself unable to lend money except at such high rates as to make it prohibitive to the borrower and we have therefore, much against our will, been forced to suspend our business in the province; yet hoping that the laws will soon be modified to bring Alberta back to where it ranks, not only even with but ahead of other farming communities. We regret that our hands are tied and as soon as there is a chance we look forward to again loaning there."

D. A. CAMPBELL,
President, Associated Mortgage Investors.

Canada at British Empire Exhibition

(1) The Canadian Pavilion with the towers of the Indian building in the background. (2) Entrance to the Canadian Pacific building. (3) Showing the progress made in the building of bridges and lakes with the Malaya Pavilion in the background.

Showing the Canadian Pavilion, at Wembley, under course of construction. As portions of the Canadian space allotment have been given over to the two great railway systems, the building which will house the Government exhibits will be somewhat smaller than those of other Dominions, but a great deal of time and money has been spent on its design and decoration, with the result that it promises to be the gem of the British Empire Exhibition. The photograph shows the progress made up to the end of December.

Inset is shown the entrance to the Canadian Pacific pavilion. This building is grouped with the Canadian Government pavilion with which it was designed to harmonize. A massive triple entrance, two stories high, which await the immigrant and settler.

NEPTUNE TO VISIT WORLD CRUISERS

The certificate as shown above will be issued to all passengers aboard the Empress of Canada who appear before Neptune as did these passengers on the Empress of France last year, who are shown in pictures 2 and 3.

When to travel upon the sea was to venture in great danger it was usually thought wise by the voyagers to propitiate the god of the waters by making offerings before setting sail, and oftentimes, when Neptune displayed his wrath at sea, human sacrifices were made to him. To our superstitious ancestors the sea of Saturn and Ops had great power over the waves, even the fates of the sea, and had, therefore, in his hands the welfare of all vessels and their human and other freight. The worship of Neptune was early introduced into Rome, and July 23rd, "Neptunalia," was his feast.

As science reduced the terrors of the sea, and education and higher civilization erased the sometimes terrible superstitions from the minds of the world, so the worship of and sacrifices to Neptune ceased, but even to this day he is venerated by many Latin and Scandinavian sailors and no ship crosses the equator without some recognition being made of him. Usually the tales of a storm of a hurricane in progress in which those who are taking the voyage are initiated into the mysteries of the deep.

The unique photograph reproduced above was taken aboard the Canadian Pacific "Empress of France" while on a "Round the World" cruise last year. Neptune boarded the great liner in the early morning of the day on which the "line" was crossed, and held court. He was attended by the Royal Barber and other high officials who assisted in the initiation ceremony. Most of the passengers were summoned to his august presence and were tried for their misdemeanour, punishment or praise being awarded without fail. Those who professed ignorance of having been "initiated" before were, of course, exempt from trial.

This year, when Neptune boards the Empress of Canada, which leaves New York on a Round the World cruise on January 5th, his secretary will issue to all those who pass before the God of the Waters, certificates to that effect, which will be countersigned by Captain S. Robinson, R.N.R., who commands the vessel, and which, besides being valuable souvenirs of the trip, will exempt the holder from further trial.

FATHER AND SON BANQUET

The C. S. E. T. boys of Irma held a father and son banquet in the M. E. church Monday evening. The scope was extended to include mothers of the boys also. About fifty guests were seated at the tables in the church basement. A bountiful supply of good "eats" had been collected by the boys and prepared by the ladies of the church. Girls of the community assisted in serving these viands.

Wayne Mitchell of the Tuxis Square acted as toastmaster, and opened with a toast to the King. Other toasts were to mothers by Aleck Smallwood, the fathers by Dan Matheson, the school by Stewart Beattie, and the Church by Darrell Peterson. Responses were by Mrs. G. W. Mitchell for the mothers, Mr. Geo. Fischer for the fathers, Miss Broadbridge for the school and Rev. Elliott for the Church. Mr. Fischer's remarks were well worthy of consideration by all C.S.E.T. boys. Rev. Elliott's talk was also instructive as to the purpose and hope of the C.S.E.T. movement. The banquet in itself was a training for the boys, and other activities will follow later.

Following the feast and toasts was a social and fun period of singing, games and stunts. At the conclusion of the evening the boys voted an expression of thanks to the ladies and girls without whose generous work at food and table the affair could not have been the great success it was.
